Midland Credit Union's Audrey Spencer Earns Prestigious CCUE Designation

URBANDALE, Iowa — Midland Credit Union is proud to announce that Retail Services Manager Audrey Spencer has graduated from Credit Union Management School and earned the Certified Credit Union Executive (CCUE) designation, a prestigious achievement in the credit union industry.

The CCUE designation recognizes credit union professionals who complete the rigorous three-year Credit Union Management School program, including examinations, strategic projects, and an oral presentation. The program focuses on leadership, strategic planning, financial management, and operational expertise.

"Audrey's dedication to continuous learning and professional excellence reflects the values we strive to uphold at Midland Credit Union," said Randy Hass, CEO of Midland Credit Union. "We are incredibly proud of this accomplishment and know the knowledge and leadership skills she gained will continue to benefit our members, our team, and Midland's future."

As Retail Services Manager, Spencer leads Midland's retail operations and plays a key role in delivering exceptional member service.

"I'm grateful for the opportunity to participate in Credit Union Management School and earn the CCUE designation," said Spencer. "The experience challenged me to think strategically, collaborate with credit union professionals from across the country, and develop skills that will help me better serve our members and our organization."
